Year of the Billionth Dollar

In this day and age, it may be hard to get excited about a billion dollars . . . unless you realize you're talking about your own money.

Then, frankly, you're awed by all the ciphers. At least we are, as we report that by the end of 1963 we will have invested nearly one billion dollars in equipment and facilities over the past eight years to give you the kind of telephone service you want.

Each year since 1956, our annual construction costs have exceeded one hundred millions. This year's estimated $130,000,000 tops us out at one billion.

A program of this kind is an expression of our faith in the future growth of this area. Our ability to carry it on depends on good earnings because we have to raise the necessary money to do the job each year.

Many of the dollars have bought the basics: more cable, more switches, more buildings to keep up with the record number of people moving into the Rocky Mountain West.

Yet, a great part of the money has been spent to improve the service you already have. Today, it's faster (Direct Distance Dialing's, easier (phones that dial calls automatically), handier sidewalk telephones), even prettier (surely you've seen the Princess phone).

We honestly believe your telephone service is as first as money and human skills can make it ... for the time being. Next year it will be better.

You can bank on it.
